Corporate Experience

Dr. Ortiz partnered with the University of Pennsylvania’s Positive Psychology Department to integrate resilience education into the Army’s Master Resilience Training Program, directly shaping leader development across the force.

She directed the creation of the TRADOC Company Commander & First Sergeants Course, providing standardized preparation for key leaders, and spearheaded the full redesign and implementation of the T3 Course, certifying 48 satellite-site instructors through a hybrid model that ensured consistent quality and expertise.

She also led the development and implementation of the Advanced Individual Training (AIT) Platoon Sergeant Course, which successfully prepared leaders during the three-year transition period following the elimination of the AIT Drill Sergeant program.

While serving at IMTLS as the proponent and certifying authority for IMT regulatory guidance, Dr. Ortiz designed and delivered two certification courses for the Puerto Rico National Guard (Fort Allen), certifying cadre and Drill Sergeants in IMT requirements. To ensure access, one cohort was delivered entirely in Spanish with bilingual materials, and official certificates were issued upon completion.

During the COVID-19 lockdown, Dr. Ortiz spearheaded the rapid digital transition of the Brigade/Battalion Pre-Command Course. Within 72 hours, she enabled students to continue seamlessly by leveraging issued iPads and launching a live, camera-on Zoom delivery plan. Under her leadership, IMTLS became the only TRADOC institution to graduate its cohort on schedule and without instructional degradation—demonstrating decisive innovation under crisis.

These accomplishments exemplify the foundation upon which Dr. Ortiz Global Training & Development delivers scalable, bilingual, evidence-based leader development solutions for public safety, education, corporate, and military clients.
